

Second Polio Case

The second polio case reported in Greenbelt this year was taken to Gallinger Hospital last Friday. The patient is a 27-year-old woman, the mother of three small children, who lives on Hillside Road.

The eight-year-old Greenbelt girl who became ill with polio three weeks ago is now back home. She had a mild case with no paralysis.

Accident In North End Shocks City Tuesday

The shocking death of 20-month-old Daniel Eugene Brown under the wheels of a city garbage truck on Tuesday morning broke a ten-year Greenbelt record of no traffic fatalities. In 1939 there were two traffic deaths, one a child.

City Manager Charles T. McDonald, who said that the truck was moving very slowly at the time of the accident and had a man on the back as well as the one in the driver's seat, told The Cooperator Tuesday night that in the future, to avoid another such tragedy, the second man will wait on the ground instead of the back of the truck until the truck pulls out of each court. A hearing was held this morning in Hyattsville on the technical charge of manslaughter which was placed against Forrest M. Hagen, driver of the truck.

Daniel is survived by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Dock F. Brown, of 15-R Laurel Hill Road, and a brother, Gregory, 4. Funeral services were held this afternoon at 2 in the Chambers Funeral Home in Riverdale, with Rev. Edward H. Bonsall officiating. Interment was at Fort Lincoln cemetery.

Police Get Call For Blood Donors

The Greenbelt police received an emergency call last Monday night from Prince George's Hospital asking whether they had a file of blood donors, as a Greenbelt woman in the hospital needed a blood transfusion. Mrs. Mildred Behrens, clerk at the police station, immediately checked through their file for blood donors with blood of the requested type, but after calling several people she found that the women were pregnant and the few men had colds.

When an announcement was made at the theatre, enough people responded to fill four cars, and go down to the hospital. Several people who offered their blood did not know their blood type. The patient was reported to be "holding her own" on Tuesday.

The blood donor file at the police station is now being brought up to date, and all Greenbelters are urged by Chief of Police George Panagoulis to register their names and blood type there at the earliest possible date.

City Council Unanimously Elects Mrs. Harrington 1st Woman Mayor

Betty Harrington was elected mayor of Greenbelt by unanimous vote of the city council Monday night, with the applause of a crowd of citizens attending the first meeting of the newly-elected group.

Placing her name in nomination, Thomas J. Canning, mayor for the past two years, said, "The tremendous vote of confidence Mrs. Harrington received from the people of the community and her record of service on the council for the past two years entitle her to hold the high office of mayor of Greenbelt."

Mrs. Harrington, first woman mayor of the community, acknowledged the applause and replied, "I did not seek this responsibility and honor. . . . Since the council has elected me, I hope that I can fill the position with the same dignity and effectiveness as my predecessor, Mr. Canning."

Elected mayor pro-tem, was Frank Lastner, by a vote of 3-2. Councilman Canning placed Lastner's name in nomination; Mayor Harrington nominated Canning. Voting was conducted by closed ballot.

The new mayor presented Mr. Canning with a gavel on behalf of the city in recognition of his service as mayor.

Appointment of chairmen of the five standing committees of the council was deferred until the next meeting to give the new members, Councilmen Steve Comings and James Wolfe, an opportunity to determine their preference. The committees are (1) general government, (2) education, library and recreation, (3) public works, (4) public safety and (5) public improvement and zoning.

The oath of office was taken by the new council at the beginning of the meeting.

The next meeting of the city council will be held this Monday, October 10, at 8 p.m.

No. 7

[The following speech was presented by Ralph G. Miller, Cooperator staff member, before a meeting of employees of the Potomac Cooperative area, held in Greenbelt last Monday. It is being reprinted here so that our readers may also share the information it contains.]

The Greenbelt Cooperative Publishing Association has one activity, but it is a big one, publishing The Greenbelt Cooperator. The Cooperator, an independent paper, is the only newspaper in town and it is distributed to every home. No price is charged, although in recent years this has been considered many times.

The Greenbelt Cooperative Publishing Association, a non-profit organization, is open to any resident who is a member of two or more cooperatives in Greenbelt. The members of the association elect a board of five directors who in turn select an editor.

The purpose of The Cooperator, as stated on its masthead, is (1.) to report Greenbelt news fully, fairly and accurately, and (2.) to serve the best interests of the cooperative movement.

At the present time the paper has 18 members on its staff; throughout the years this has varied.

The paper was started in November 1937 by a group of residents who formed a Journalistic Club. Its purpose was to provide an outlet for the dissemination of news in town, at first, I imagine, particularly federal and town government notices.

The first six issues were experimental. During this period the paper was also sponsored by Greenbelt Consumer Services and apparently financial support for these six issues was given by GCS. I am sorry this happened, because ever since then the paper has been fighting charges that it is a house organ of Greenbelt Consumer Services.

We of the staff welcome every opportunity such as this to publicly state that The Greenbelt Cooperator is independent and supports itself through sale of advertising space.

The seventh issue and those following were published by the Journalistic Club until 1940, when the present form of organization, the Greenbelt Cooperative Publishing Association, was adopted.

The paper was first published in mimeographed form, then offset, and finally, in 1941, printed. This was an achievement. It was the realization of a dream. There have always been dreams in the minds of the staff members of a goal to be reached. One was a printed paper; another was an 8-page printed paper, and this too has been accomplished although a shortage of help has made it necessary to give up the 8 pages and return to 4 pages for the time being. Still another dream, and this is the most remote I am afraid, is our own printing plant to print The Cooperator and to serve the printing needs of cooperatives in the Washington area.

The Greenbelt Cooperator is a unique institution in a unique community. All staff members are volunteer workers. Only the delivery boys are paid for their services, and the ad solicitor gets a small percentage.

Our staff is made up of housewives, and employed men and women, who week after week spend one to 17 hours in getting out the paper. Most of this is night work. One and two o'clock in the morning, once or twice a week, is bedtime for some staff members. Some weeks three or four may be the hour. Several editors have had to work all night to get the paper out.

This is the driving spirit of The Cooperator staff now and in the past which has made it possible to publish the paper every week for nearly 12 years without missing an issue. We are prouder of this, I think, than of any single thing I can think of.

Why is this work done week after week for nothing? Not just for the love of newspaper work. A Washington newspaper reporter was astounded to learn that the staff worked without compensation. I like newspaper work, he said, but not that much.

It's not the satisfaction in seeing one's writing in type. Nor the one or two parties, good as they are, we give once or twice a year.

I think, most of us, consciously or unconsciously, have a deep feeling of a responsibility, in kinship with the founders of the paper, to serve the community and preserve its unity by keeping the residents informed of the activities going on in town.

The Greenbelt Cooperator serves the cooperative movement not only by printing news of local co-ops, but by something I think is more important. And that is that The Greenbelt Cooperator is an outstanding example of achievement through cooperation.

High School Elects Student Council Officers

The 1949-50 officers of the Greenbelt high school student council have been elected and are as follows: president, Wally Daniels; vice president, Jack Goudie; secretary, Ann Lastner; treasurer, Horace Randolph.

The council is under the sponsorship of Charles Messner.

The 11th and 12th grade science students visited the Naval Ordnance Laboratories at White Oaks. While there they saw many scientific developments which are under investigation by Navy scientists.

James Whiteleather participated in a radio quiz program, and won two prizes, one of which was $7.50 worth of dairy products and the other a pen and pencil set.

The trip was arranged by county officials, and the students were accompanied by Charles Messner.

One of the highlights was a two-way trip on mule back from the rim to the bottom of Grand Canyon, and a stay at Phantom Ranch. After weeks of sweltering heat, they encountered snow in the Rockies. At Juarez, Mexico, the rain came down in torrents, and they had to wade barefooted through a flood to the American side of the border. These vacationers came back rich with unforgettable memories of the "Golden West."

To the Editor

THANK THE VOTERS

My apologies to the voters of Greenbelt for not having my letter of thanks in The Cooperator last week. Due to illness of my father, I was out of the city.

Let me take this opportunity to thank the voters who showed their confidence in me by re-electing me to the City Council. Words will not express my appreciation for this honor you have bestowed on me for the fourth term. However, I will do my best in the office for the interest of Greenbelt. In this way I believe I will express my feelings more than any words that could be said.

Yours sincerely,

Frank J. Lastner

WILL DO BEST

May I express through the columns of The Cooperator my sincere appreciation and thanks to the people of Greenbelt for the confidence signified by their vote in the recent city election. May I also reiterate what I have said before: that I will in an honest way do my best for what I think is good for all Greenbelt.

School Head States Aims At Meeting

By Rae Algaze

The first meeting of the Center School PTA was held on September 27 in the social room which was filled to capacity with 146 members and 16 teachers. Present were a great number of parents whose children have started kindergarten this fall.

The program opened with a "social mixer," a game which served to dispel the reserve among those present. Mrs. Paul T. Kosatka, the new president, stressed the aims of the organization in her brief opening remarks.

Mrs. Fugitt, principal of the school, stated that the aims of the PTA are to understand the child as an individual, to understand the environment in which the child operates, and to understand the reaction within his environment. "We consider the first the most important area," she said, "understanding the child. We believe that every child has a contribution to make and we aim to place him in such a position that this may be realized."

The president introduced members of the faculty, including five new teachers, Mrs. Canavan, Mrs. Larimore, Miss Carl, Mrs. Ragan, and Mrs. Gallic.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by the Male Octette who harmonized several oldtime favorites. The gentlemen, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. John R. McClendon, were: Thomas B. Berry, Stanley R. Edwards, A. J. McDermid, Fred B. Bircher, Elliott Bukzin, Harold Huffendick, Phil Werner. Robert Killian, eighth member of the octette, was unable to attend.

At the conclusion of the program, parents and teachers became acquainted with one another over the coffee and cake. One mother present, Mrs. Millie Tierney, had been taught in her first grade by Mrs. Fugitt twenty-one years ago.

Offer Violin Class For City Orchestra

Beginners' violin classes for children who are interested in joining the Greenbelt Youth Orchestra will meet on Saturday, October 8 in the arts and crafts room of the Center school at 10 a.m. Two classes for violin and cello are being formed at the present time. There is no charge for instruction, but students must have their own violins.

Several students will be selected to use City-owned cellos as part of the Greenbelt musical program.

Boys and girls who already play string and wind instruments will be admitted to the youth orchestra, which will rehearse in the same room at 11 o'clock. Anyone interested may attend the session on Saturday morning where further plans will be discussed.

The Youth Orchestra, which will be under the direction of David Burchuk, is a city-sponsored activity.

Mr. Burchuk, who has a bachelor's and master's degree in music, and the degree of Master of Science in Education, is a specialist in instructing young players. He has studied and played under such musicians as the late Frederick Stock of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra; Howard Hansen, composer and conductor; Ferde Grofe, Morton Gould, Harl MacDonald, composer and manager of the Philadelphia Orchestra; Vladimir Bakaleinikoff, assistant conductor of the Pittsburgh Symphony and Boris Goldofsky, operatic authority and conductor.

Locals Open Up On Beltsville 13-0

The Greenbelt Boys' Club Junior football eleven, last year's county champions, opened the current season last Saturday by downing Beltsville 13-0.

Bob Bradley and Kenny Miller furnished the scoring punch for the locals, each getting a touchdown. Mike Redd entered the scoring column by grabbing a pass for the extra point. The line play of Don Flynn was outstanding.

The Juniors will entertain Lanham at Braden Field on Saturday afternoon. Kick-off at 2:30.

WOMEN VOTERS DISCUSS PARTY POLITICAL ROLE

"How to get more and better informed voters to the polls," was the theme of a regional Voters Service conference held October 4 and 5 at Pierce Hall, 16th and Howard Avenues, by the League of Women Voters of the U. S. Attending the conference as a delegate from the Prince Georges County League were: Mrs. Brendan O'Dwyer, chairman of the Voters Service Committee, Mrs. Herbert Conrad, Green Meadows, Mrs. Ben Posner, Greenbelt, and Mrs. Everett Wilcox, Hyattsville. This conference, in which Virginia, Maryland and Washington, D. C. participated, is one of sixteen held all over the country.

'Parties' Stressed

The purpose of the Conference according to Mrs. O'Dwyer was to show the importance of work in political parties, especially in the nominating of qualified candidates. The role of the political party in the United States today and the newest techniques and tools for a year-round League Voters Service job were discussed.

"The League of Women Voters has always been non-partisan and will remain so," Mrs. O'Dwyer said. "Its aim is to get people to vote in national, state and local elections. We know, however, the importance of nominating the best possible men and women, and since under our system of government that is best done through political parties it becomes clear that as individuals we must all assume more party responsibility." The Conference has brought out new and better ways to get citizens to go to the polls and vote, which the delegates expect to apply to their work in the Prince Georges County League.

Grizzlies Trounce Bladensburg 25-6

Greenbelt High School, after losing its opening football game with Bladensburg 25-6, bounced back last Saturday night to upset a favored Sherwood High eleven 18-13. Sherwood is located in Sandy Springs, Montgomery County, and has been playing football for several years.

Earnest Effort

The Grizzlies started out in a very serious mood and before the contest was very old, Charlie Kans, fleet halfback, sliced off tackle and dashed 25 yards for the first score. Early in the second period, John Teel scored from the five-yard line to make the score 12-0. Maffay missed his second try for the extra point. The local lads were well on their way to another touchdown after a pass play, Kans to Ronnie Craig covered 50 yards to the Sherwood 9. However, a holding penalty against the Green and White set the ball back to about their own 25-yard line. A bad pass from center gave the ball to Sherwood on the Greenbelt 10. The visitors wasted no time taking advantage of the break and the score was 12-6.

Midway through the third period, Greenbelt again was on the march. Tom Quigley delivered the final blow when he sliced off tackle and scooted 20 yards to pay dirt. Sherwood received the kick and pressed relentlessly on the ground and through the air to score making it 18-13.

Craig Injured

The victory was a costly one for Jack Zeldin's boys who lost the services of Ronnie Craig, star end, who suffered a broken hand in the second period. Outstanding performers for the Greenies were Clyde Eanes, Horace Randolph, Jack Baxter, Billy Turner, Ed Halley, Duane Leifur, Jack Cook, Bill Dove, Norman Briggs, Tom Simmons, Craig, Teel, Kans, Quigley and Joe Brosmer, who did a great job of quarterbacking.

This week on Friday, October 7, Bladensburg plays Bethesda. Saturday Mt. Rainier plays Sherwood.

Greenbelt plays Mt. Rainier on Saturday, October 15. All games are at the University of Maryland Stadium at 8 p.m. The continuation of high school football depends on the support it receives from the community.

Navy Wives Bake For Polio Fund

The Truman Riddle Navy Wives Club will hold a bake sale at 10 a.m. Friday, October 7, in the lobby of the theater. The proceeds will go to the Prince Georges County polio fund.

There will be a selection of home baked goods, and the cooperation of Greenbelt citizens was solicited for this cause.

Anyone desiring to participate by making a cash donation or by contributing a baked item may do so by getting in touch with Mrs. Helen Gramatte, 51-A Ridge, Greenbelt 8731.

Troop 85 Meets, Plans Senior Program

By Susan MacKenzie and Betty Merryman

On September 22, at the home of Mrs. Hazel Foor, 18-W Ridge, the first meeting of Troop 85, the new Girl Scout senior troop, was held. This is the first time in many months that there has been a senior troop in Greenbelt. Troop 85, formerly an intermediate troop, was started four years ago.

Members of the new troop are Joyce Elder, Helen Freer, Rosalie Fleisher, Zoe Fuls, Margo Kennedy, Mary Ann Kramer, Joan Murray, Patricia Parker, Helen Iiter, Doreen Taylor, Jerriane Weber, Susan MacKenzie, and Betty Merryman. Troop leader is Mrs. Ellen Linson, and the assistant leader is Mrs. Hazel Foor.

One of the main purposes of the new troop is to work for the good of the community. As the senior troop is composed of some of the oldest and most experienced girls in scouting, the girls will also act as program aids to the younger troops.

There are many programs for the senior scouts, such as ranger, hospital aids, and program aids. Troop 85 chose none of these. Instead, they prefer to take part in a little of each. Their program is divided into three parts. The first, and most important, is service. This means working with younger girls and helping the leaders with various jobs. As part of service, the senior girl scouts try in every way to work for the good of the community.

Part two is nature, and other enjoyments. This includes such activities as overnight hikes, roller skating parties, and downtown movies. Part three is social functions.

All of these are added together to make a well-balanced program. The complete scouting program is divided into these parts: Brownie, Intermediate, and Senior. The Brownie works for the good of her home; the Intermediate, for her neighborhood; but the older and more experienced senior works for the good of her community, her country, and humanity.

Your Co-op Service Station

Along Our Street

with Aunt Penny

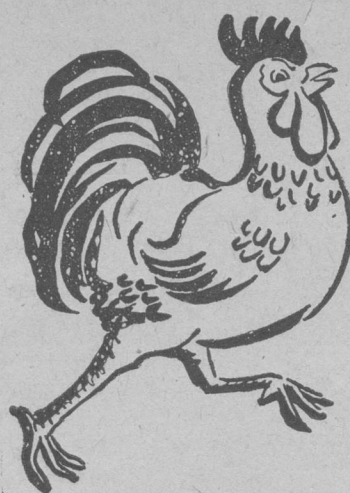

Have you ever been to a telephone company "open house"? Last week, while I was visiting my nephew Tom and his family, the local telephone central office held an "open house" and we all decided to go.

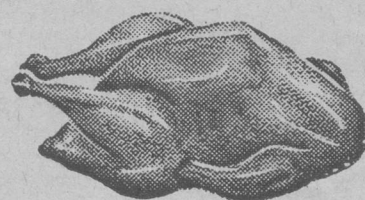

A nice young woman took a group of us through the central office and I enjoyed it thoroughly. I can't say I understood all the complicated equipment we saw, but I did understand the part about telephone party lines.

One of the telephone men explained that in spite of the great progress being made in expanding the telephone system, some folks are still waiting for telephone service. He said that by connecting two or more families to the same line—a party line—several families get service instead of just one. So, actually, party-line sharing helps bring telephone service to more people sooner.
